BEANS

Culture—Beans may be planted in Florida during most of the year. The ground should have a good application of phosphate and limestone and then be thoroughly prepared. For hand cultivation plant 6 or 8 beans to the foot in rows about 18 inches apart. For horse cultivation the rows should be 2½ feet apart. Seed should be covered from 1 inch in heavy soil to 3 inches in light sandy soil. Cultivate frequently and well, but never when the leaves are wet from rain or dew. Cultivation should be shallow except in very heavy soil and when the bloom appears in quantity cultivation close to the plant should stop.

Giant Stringless Green Pod (42 days)—This is one of the most popular and attractive beans for market. The pods are about 7 inches long, nearly straight, round, and a little lighter green in color than Burpee's Stringless. They are brittle, stringless, even when well matured and of fine flavor. The plants are strong, vigorous growers and very productive. They are becoming more popular with market growers every year as they have a ready sale when there is no market for the flat, stringy sorts. Every home garden should have them.

10c	35c	60c		Mammoth Sugar, edible pod.....

PEAS

Culture—Peas may be planted in Florida at any time from September to February. For best results they should be planted on ground that has had an application of ground limestone and phosphorus, and be inoculated with nitrogen-fixing bacteria. Sow in double rows about 8 inches apart, making distance between double rows 3 to 4 feet; cover about 2 inches for quick bearing. If covered about 4 inches they will give a longer bearing season.

Thomas Laxton—A second early wrinkled sort, growing about 2½ feet high. Hardy and productive, with pods of large size and blunt at each end, containing 7 or 8 peas of deep green color. Very similar to Gradus, the pods being a little smaller and maturing a few days later, but a little more productive.

Laxtonian—This is an ideal wrinkled pea for the home garden or market, medium dwarf in growth, reaching a height of about 1½ feet. Pods are similar to those of Gradus and about as large, and seldom have any blank spaces. They are about 4 inches long, straight and pointed.

BEETS

Culture—Soil should be light, rich and well drained. Plow or spade up deep. Make the rows for hand cultivation about 15 inches apart, and for field or horse cultivation about 3 feet. Sow thinly and cover about 1 inch deep, or if the soil is stiff, about ½ inch. The young plants may be thinned to 3 or 4 inches, transplanting those pulled, or they may be let grow till large enough to use for “greens” and then thinned. Beet “greens” are preferred by many to turnips and spinach.

Beets do not do well on a sour soil. They should therefore be planted on ground having some shell in it. If unable to plant on shell land, give an application of limestone.

Detroit Dark Red (50 days)
—This is one of the very best for home, market or canning purposes, and is widely grown. It is early and has small upright tops which are dark green, shaded red. The roots are smooth, of medium size and globe shaped. The skin is a dark red with the flesh a solid vermillion red. Our special stock shows little or no white zones.

CABBAGE

Culture—Cabbage is best started by putting the seed in a bed and transplanting the plants. The bed should be well worked over and the soil made as fine as possible. It should be raised a little so as to afford good drainage. Use little or no fertilizer in the bed. It should be kept moist and never permitted to dry out or become water soaked. Plant the seed in rows far enough apart to permit of working easily, from 8 inches up, depending on your tools. Put 3 or 4 seed to the inch and cover from one-quarter to one-half inch. Firm the soil well after planting. The best way is to walk on the row. They should be transplanted when the fourth or fifth pair of leaves are made. Cultivate frequently but not deep as the roots come near the surface.

Selected Early Jersey Wakefield (90 to 100 days)—This is without doubt the most popular of the early cabbages for either home use or for market. We have made great effort to have our strain of this seed the best there is and believe that you will find it fully equal if not superior to any that can be found in the market. Makes compact, sweet, pointed heads, just right in size for an average family.

LETTUCE

Culture—Lettuce requires a mellow, moist and rich soil for best results. For early crop sow in hot-bed or boxes inside. Outdoor culture can be started as soon as the ground can be worked in spring. Sow in rows 1½ ft. apart and thin to 3 inches between the plants in the row. Sow every 10 days. Water frequently.

May King—Very hardy; can be planted very early in the spring-time. Matures early, forming a large, solid head. Fine either for home or market use.

POP CORN

20 75c Hulless, very fine for popping....

ONIONS

Culture—To grow large onions from seed the first year, sow the seed during October in a well prepared seed bed. Onion seed will not sprout at a high temperature and the best results are obtained by planting after the weather has become cool. Keep well watered until the plants are well developed, then gradually diminish, but do not let the roots become dry. When about the size of a pencil pull from the seed bed, clip off about ¾ of the green top and cut the roots to about 1 inch in length. Transplant in rows about 15 inches apart and 4 to 6 inches in the row. This crop should be given thorough and clean culture.

White Wax Bermuda. This variety from the Canary Islands, is a large, pure waxy white, flat onion. It is very popular with large market growers in the South and Southwest. It does well in the North, and produces a very mild, sweet onion.

SPINACH

Culture—Requires a very rich, loose, moist soil. Spade or plow under well rotted manure in the fall. For spring culture the rows should be 12 to 18 inches apart and thin to about six inches between plants. Spinach can be sown in the fall for early spring use. Cover seed-bed with straw, leaves, etc.

New Zealand—This is a plant of a different genus; entirely distinct from the common Spinach. It grows 4 to 5 feet high, thrives during the hot weather; can be cut nearly all summer. New leaves will grow where others are cut off if you preserve the main shoot, and will continue in long bearing, surviving pretty heavy frost. May be sown early in April. The plants should be about 20 inches apart.

White Icicle Radish

RADISHES

Culture.—Radishes require a light, rich soil, as they lose their crispness in heavy soils. The small sorts that become pithy should be eaten when quite small and should be planted every 10 days to give a succession. The large winter sorts do not become so pithy as a rule, and should be grown to good size. Make the rows 12 to 15 inches apart.

Long White Icicle. For those who prefer a white radish we suggest this one. In some ways it is to be preferred to the Lady Finger. It is not quite so long and does not grow so much above the ground, and on that account does not have so much greenish color on the upper part. It is a little thicker and more square shouldered at the top, and is a little earlier. Taken all in all it is, we believe, the best of the long white radishes for the home garden.

TURNIPS

Culture—Any kind of mellow, fertile soil, from the light, sandy loam to heavy clay, is adapted to this crop. In order to have turnips at their best, they should make a rapid, continuous growth, as otherwise they will be stringy and woody. Turnips that are checked in growth are liable to become bitter. Keep them growing vigorously and plant several times so as to have young tender ones for the table. Sow in drills about 18 inches apart. Thin to 4 to 6 inches. May also be sown broadcast in field.

Snowball—This is one of the very best turnips for home garden planting. It is very early, round, has white skin and flesh, and is of medium size. The flesh is firm and solid and has a very fine flavor.

White Egg (70 days)—A quick-growing, pure white turnip of oval shape. Smooth, fine-grained and sweet. A fine turnip and very generally grown but not as good as Snowball for the home garden.

THE A B C OF FLORIDA TRUCKING

By C. H. Kennerly

This is in many respects the best book that has been published on truck growing in Florida. Mr. Kennerly was in the seed business for a time and conducted a truck farm for a number of years, so that he speaks from broad experience. The book was used as a text book at the University of Florida. It is just what a person wants who is not familiar with the conditions in this State. 140 pages. Price 50 cents, postpaid.

With an order for seeds in packets and ounces amounting to $1.00, send us 25 cents extra and we will send you the book.
